ADULT BABY

♀ After reading the numerous letters about adult babies, I would like to share my own experience with fellow readers.

After two years of conventional marriage, I was surprised to find that my own husband is an adult baby. It all began when he suddenly began wetting the bed. At first he feigned embarrassment, and although he steadfastly avoided visiting a physician for his "condition," I assumed his wetting was brought on by physical incontinence.

Shortly thereafter I purchased adult diapers and plastic pants in a local drugstore and proceeded to diaper him nightly before bed. I was amazed at the amorous effect my diapering had upon him.

Two weeks later he confessed that his wetting was far from unexplainable, and that he derived sexual fulfillment from being dressed and treated like a baby. He also showed me several adult magazines dealing exclusively with infantilism and explained that his particular sexual preference was no more far out than bondage, transvestism or any other.

Since then I have indulged my husband's needs with baby bottles, toys and even a playpen. It gives me great satisfaction to meet his needs, and if letting him be a baby again is fulfilling, I see no reason in depriving him of his fantasy. Our relationship is indeed more open and intimate than ever.
